The Riviera Shines Bright Under New Management

Weekend parties and newly renovated apartments make the Riviera the place to be

Provo, UT (September 28, 2015) -- Since new management took over in August, the Riviera, aka "The Riv", is the new favorite place to live for cost-conscious college students in Provo and Orem.

During apartment-hunting season, the two cities' student-housing complexes promise the best amenities and living spaces at the best prices. However, many of these apartments fail to live up to the hype--under its new management, the Riviera complex does not.

The newly renovated and fully furnished apartment complex features a brand-new, state-of-the-art, 24-hour fitness center. Apartments received makeovers over the summer to include new hardwood floors, furniture and kitchen appliances. Other amenities include fully furnished apartments a large pool area and several basketball and volleyball courts.

"Everything has improved under the new management. They are willing to do whatever they can to work with you, and they are organizing a lot of activities to get the residents involved. It's seriously a great place," said Jamie Homewood on Google Reviews.

The new management is one of the top reasons why students live at the Riviera. Tenants get donuts after passing each cleaning check. Management organizes activities such as block parties, pool parties, dances and sports tournaments.

Students can look forward to living in clean apartments with top-notch amenities in a social community. The Riviera is a 5-minute walk from BYU campus, right across the street from LaVell Edwards Stadium and close to many of Provo's most popular restaurants and shopping areas.

The Riviera and its new management are dedicated to the student experience. Living at the Riviera is the right choice for any college student looking for an apartment close to campus at a low cost with a fun environment and beautiful living space. Once you live at the Riv, you'll never want to live anywhere else.
